

STUDI DI SOCIOLOGIA

Editorial Guidelines

---

Editing Rules

1. Each article, including footnotes and references, should not exceed 50.000 characters (including spaces); reviews should not exceed 8.000 characters (including spaces).
2. The Journal adopts the American reference system, based on “surname + publication year” e.g., (Boudon 1985). When a direct quotation is reported, the page number should also be included e.g., (Boudon 1985: 112). When the quotation refers to a paper written by two or more authors, it’s necessary to indicate the name of the first author followed by et al. For example: (Boudon et al. 1985). All authors’ names, however, should appear in the bibliography. When references include more articles written by the same author, you should distinguish them using letters: e.g., Alexander 1987a: 18; Alexander 1987b: 233).
3. When you cite a website, please don’t forget to include the date of the last access: www.unicatt.it, 2/12/2005.
4. Footnotes with descriptive text are allowed in moderation. Their enumeration should be progressive.
5. The references must include only the papers cited.

Examples

ARCHER M.S.

(1982) Morphogenesis Versus Structuration: On Combining Structure and Action, in «British Journal of Sociology», 33, pp. 455-483.

(1997) La morfogenesi della società, Angeli, Milano (ed. or. 1995).

BOURDIEU P.

(2003) Il mestiere di scienziato, Feltrinelli, Milano.

GIGLIOLI P.P. E DAL LAGO A. (a cura di)

(1983) Etnometodologia, il Mulino, Bologna.

WOOLGAR S.

(1983) Irony in the Social Study of Science, in K. KNORR-CETINA E M. MULKAY (a cura di), Science Observed. Perspectives on the Social Study of Science, Sage, London/Beverly Hills/New Delhi, pp. 239-266.

Submission and Review Process

1. The articles must be sent to the following e-mail address: studi.sociologia@unicatt.it
2. If the paper includes tables or figures, please make sure they are of good quality. You can attach them in a separate file. Authors are responsible for eventually requiring the rights of publication if the images are protected by copyright.
3. An abstract (maximum 800-1000 characters), five key-words and a biographic note are required. Please also indicate the e-mail and postal address of each author.
4. Authors are allowed to review only the first draft before the deadline indicated without any change to the form and content (if the editorial staff does not receive the review before the deadline, the draft will be considered accepted by the author). The author must work on the original draft.
5. Each author will receive two (2) copies of the journal and 25 article copies (in case of reviews: just five (5)). If you are interested in receiving more copies, please ask the editorial secretary and consider the fact that they will need to be paid for.